

Are all the gods from ancient mythology really just fallen angels?

The historian Josephus, interpreted the "sons of God" mentioned in Genesis 6:2 as angels[1]. This interpretation is supported by some translations of the Old Testament[1]. Ancient pagan legends, such as those of Hercules and Gilgamesh, might have their basis in the "men of renown" described in Genesis 6:4[1]. Some biblical passages, such as Jude 6-7, are interpreted by some as referring to angels who abandoned their proper domain and engaged in inappropriate behavior[2]. Scholars however are not agreed upon facts. There is no definitive evidence that gods from ancient mythology were actually fallen angels[3][4][5].

[1] Willmington, H. L. (2011). Willmington's Guide to the Bible, 30th Anniversary Edition (p. 739). Tyndale House Publishers, Inc.

[2] Hitchcock, M. (2014). 101 answers to questions about Satan, demons, and spiritual warfare (p. 124). Harvest House Publishers.

[3] Youngblood, R. F., Bruce, F. F., & Harrison, R. K., Thomas Nelson Publishers, eds. (1995). In Nelson's new illustrated Bible dictionary. Thomas Nelson, Inc.

[4] Hampson, T. (2020). The non-prophet's guide to spiritual warfare. Harvest House Publishers.

[5] Wiese, B. (2012). Hell: Separate Truth from Fiction and Get Your Toughest Questions Answered. Charisma House.